

PROGRAM OF STUDY

Associate in Arts Degree in Anthropology AA-T Degree

Berkeley City College

The Associate of Arts Degree for Transfer in Anthropology is designed for students planning to transfer to a four-year institution as anthropology majors. A study of anthropology at Berkeley City College is centered on students gaining an exposure to the four subfields of anthropology (biological, archaeological, cultural, and linguistic anthropology). Successful completion of the program with a minimum G.P.A. of 2.0 affords students specific guarantees for transfer to the CSU system, such as admission to a CSU with junior status, priority admission to their local CSU campus and to a program or major in anthropology or similar major. If you wish to earn an associate degree, you must participate in the Student Success Program (Matriculation), which includes assessing academic skills and developing a Student Education Plan (SEP) with a counselor. This plan will map your sequence of courses to help you complete your degree regardless of the semester you begin classes. You may also consult with the Social Sciences Chair and/or anthropology full-time faculty for more information.

PROGRAM OF STUDY

Community Change Studies Program Certificate of Proficiency

Laney College

The Community Change Studies program combines academic course work and experiential learning to prepare students for careers in community development and related efforts to impact the quality of life in low-income communities and communities of color. The program is designed to equip students with the foundational knowledge and practical skills they will need to take on increasing levels of responsibility in careers in community organizing, development, and other efforts to involve residents, parents, youth and other stakeholders as leaders and practitioners in improving education, public health, housing, jobs creation and other conditions in their communities. Students will engage in academic classroom work with a community engagement component as well as 120 hours of on-site learning (paid internship) at a local community organizing or community development organization.

Career Opportunities in

Community Change Studies graduates will have strong backgrounds for careers in nonprofit, public policy, and systems level work and for academic study at four-year institutions. They will work directly with public and private agencies to build the capacity of individuals and organizations in the East Bay. Many of these positions will be in the nonprofit industry, which, according to the National Center for Charitable Statistics, accounts for 9.2% of all wages and salaries paid in the U.S. Some jobs will also be in human services, where the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics projects a 23% growth between 2008 and 2018; these professions include individual and family services, mental health, a range of community rehabilitation services, state government agencies, and community-based organization advocates.
